Simon to introduce gas price control resolution

By Karen Torrey
Staff Writer

U.S. Rep. Paul Simon, D-22nd district, will propose a resolution this week to create a bipartisan commission to study natural gas price controls and make legislative and policy recommendations to Congress and the president.

The resolution would form the National Commission on Natural Gas Policy, which Simon hopes could strike a compromise similar to the one made on social security legislation by a bipartisan group last year, according to Simon aide David Carle.

Carle said Simon fears the political pressures of next year's election season which, coupled with the approach of a cold winter could force Congress into a deadlock on the issue or to try a "quick fix." The congressman believes either move would be bad news for Illinois, said Carle.

Commission members, who would be appointed by House and Senate leaders and President Reagan, may be members of Congress, employees of government agencies or experts in fields related to energy or natural gas, according to Carle. He said the commission should include a substantial number of legislators to ease translation of commission recommendations into law.

Simon on Sunday told a Illinois Municipal League meeting in Chicago that failure to work out a solution between Congress and the Reagan administration will result in higher gas costs for consumers. And Simon ties higher utility rates to overall economic woes for Illinois.

Simon said recently that after Carbondale utility rates rose 34 percent last year, Illinois lost $2.4 million a year to natural gas-producing states, according to Carle. Simon believes the loss of revenue resulted in lost jobs and stunted economic growth, Carle said.

Simon has sponsored two of 79 natural gas bills which have been introduced in Congress, but have not been voted on. Both of Simon's bills contradict Reagan administration policy on natural gas price controls.

The Natural Gas Consumer Relief Act, proposed last spring, opposes the White House price deregulation plan. The act would extend price controls to Jan. 1, 1987, two years beyond the date controls are scheduled to expire. It also would limit the cost increases that gas producers may pass on to users to 75 percent of the inflation rate.

A "common carriage" bill, co-sponsored by Simon and U.S. Rep. Tom Corcoran of Ottawa, would eliminate monopolies some gas-producing companies have in regions where they

Job classes, salaries framework under fire

By Phillip Fiorini
Staff Writer

Hay Associates of Chicago, a consulting firm commissioned two years ago to evaluate administrative and professional positions at the University, designed a framework for the University to classify jobs and establish salary levels.

That study is now under fire by several administrative and professional employees.

SIUC President Albert Somit approved the first step of an AP personnel management program based on the Hay study in October 1981, and last May approved a second step, which became effective July 1.

Several AP staff members approved a proposal expressing "no confidence" in the first two steps of the salary system and requested that the administration not proceed with the final step. That proposal, approved at a general constituency meeting last week, will be addressed by the Administrative and Professional Council Wednesday.

Roland Keim, AP Staff Council chairman, said the constituency "felt threatened" by a system of classifying jobs in relation to other positions.

Keim, associate director of Admissions and Records, also said he couldn't argue with his constituency's position that the Hay study didn't accurately reflect what actually existed in the AP employment structure.

Harry Wirth, director of Service Enterprise, said his concern was that the study needed refinements. He said a problem arose because the study didn't "fit exactly with what the AP staff was trying to get at."

Wirth served on the original committee that examined the study from an administrative viewpoint, while an AP Staff Council committee addressed the study from the constituency angle.

Wirth said the constituency committee had asked for a study of equity in pay at SIUC and other comparable universities. However, he said AP employees received more than that.

The Hay study recommended that the administration identify "realistic standards of performance at clearly identified levels of performance." It also recommended that merit pay increases be granted for performance and not just for length of service or academic degrees. However, the study warned that it might be difficult to distinguish factors that determine whether a particular employee merits a salary increase and how much of an increase.

The salary plan's third step, a performance

U.S. Supreme Court upholds Morton Grove gun ordinance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in a major victory for advocates of tighter gun controls, refused on Monday to disturb rulings that there is no constitutional right to own a pistol.

The justices turned back challenges to a Morton Grove ordinance that outlaws the possession, even in the home, of virtually all handguns. With that, the court cleared the way for other communities to copy the ban.

The court did not issue any definitive ruling on the constitutionality of Morton Grove's ban.

But their letting stand rulings by a federal judge and a federal appeals court offered a big boost to numerous communities nationwide that have sought to emulate the 1981 ordinance, outlawing "any handgun unless the same has been rendered permanently inoperative."

The ordinance provides exceptions for peace officers, prison and security guards, licensed gun collectors and certain others. All other residents were required to surrender their guns to local authorities.

It was challenged by eight residents of the Chicago suburb who argued that it violates the Constitution's Second Amendment. It states: "A well-regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

City manager decision expected

The new Carbondale city manager will be announced to the public at a press conference Wednesday morning.

The Carbondale City Council will hold a special formal meeting at 9 a.m.

Wednesday, to be followed immediately by the press conference, City Clerk Janet Vaught said Monday.

The name of the new manager was not available Monday because he had not notified the city which currently employs him of the Council's decision, Vaught said. The date on which the manager will take the Carbondale post will be made public at the news conference, she said.

600 sign petitions to halt brush cutting

By Patrick Williams
Staff Writer

A group of about 20 marchers gathered in Thompson Woods Monday morning to collect signatures for petitions protesting the cutting of undergrowth in the woods.

The group, organized by the Student Environmental Center, collected over 600 signatures in about one hour, according to Mariposa Guido, coordinator of the center. Included among the signers were 10 faculty members. The petitions will be delivered to Clarence Dougherty, vice president for campus services.

The brush clean-up has been going on for the past month in an attempt to remove honeysuckle vines choking the woods and to provide better lighting and security.

The cutting has raised concerns among professors in the life sciences who fear the clear cutting will remove rare or valuable plants in the wood's understorey in addition to the honeysuckle. The work's effect on research in the woods has also worried some instructors.

"We feel they're just not leaving enough undergrowth," Guido said. The group wants to get all cutting stopped in order to develop a plan for the clearing. Guido said she has been trying to find out if the honeysuckle really has had any effect on safety in the woods.

Randy Norris, a student in plant and soil science who took part in the march, said the clean-up began before the University had time to develop a plan, and some rare plants have been lost as a result.

"They've taken the only witch hazel tree on campus," he said. In response to some of the complaints about the cutting, Dougherty said researchers in forestry, zoology, wildlife research, botany and plant and soil science can now tag individual plants they want spared from the clean-up, which is about one-third done.

Gus says the Friends of Thompson Woods got 600 signatures along with about 800 chigger bites and a hundred ticks, but they don't count on a petition.

Mortar fire sends Marines on maximum alert, ends truce

BEIRUT (AP) — Gunmen fired mortars and rocket grenades at Lebanese army positions Monday, forcing Marines deployed nearby to scamper into bunkers and foxholes on maximum alert for the first time in a week-old truce.

In another flare-up later in the day, army tanks fired at Shiite Moslem militia positions in a southern slum after the Shiites fired mortar rounds and rocket grenades toward the Christian-populated area of Ain Rummaneh.

President Amin Gemayel called an emergency Cabinet session, saying procedural disputes have stymied his efforts to convene a national reconciliation conference among Lebanon's feuding sects. The delay has threatened to further unravel the civil war truce that began Sept. 26.

Marine spokesman Warrant Officer Charles Rowe said about 30 Marines of Charlie Company went on "condition one" when Lebanese army positions just south of Beirut international airport came under fire at midmorning. The shooting stopped after 30 minutes, Rowe said, but it was unclear who was responsible.

It was the first time the Marines serving with the multinational force patrolling Beirut went into their maximum state of alert since the cease-fire took effect.

Several hours afterward, Ain Rummaneh residents said the Lebanese army began firing tank cannons in attempts to stop Shiite gunmen in the nearby Shiya slum from shooting mortars and grenades at Christian targets.

Army sources said fighting started after Shiite fighters allied with Druse militiamen in the mountains began sniping at army positions.

Gemayel's administration has said it is willing to hold at least the opening session of the reconciliation conference in Saudi Arabia, but that site is opposed by Syria, which has backed Druse leader Walid Jumblatt's leftist Druse militia in the civil war.

"President Gemayel told the ministers the date of holding the national dialogue has not been set yet because preliminary efforts by mediators have not overcome the new difficulties that arose from the need to choose a new venue," a statement from his office said after the Cabinet meeting.

It also said the Cabinet issued a warning, apparently aimed at Jumblatt and his eight-man committee in the mountain area controlled by his Progressive Socialist Party militia. The Cabinet said those participating in the reconciliation conference "should not become captives of military or administrative conditions dictated by one party."

Gemayel's administration has denounced Jumblatt's creation of a "civic administration committee" in the Chouf Mountain district, calling it a Syrian-backed attempt to partition the country.

Illinois justice plans retirement

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Robert C. Underwood, the senior justice of the Illinois Supreme Court, announced Monday he will resign from the state's high court next year to spend more time with his family.

Underwood, 67, said he intends to retire from the bench on Dec. 3, 1984. He said he is making the announcement now so those who wish to replace him will have time to file nominating petitions in early December as required by election laws.

Airline employees accept pay cut

MIAMI (AP) — Eastern Airlines announced Monday that its non-union employees overwhelmingly accepted a 15 percent pay cut, which Chairman Frank Borman said was necessary to keep the struggling airline in business.

"My feeling is that the numbers displayed in the tallies are pretty much the same throughout the organization," said Richard McGraw, Eastern's vice president for communications.

He said that as of 4:45 p.m. EDT Monday, 80 percent of the approximately 17,000 non-union workers had cast their ballots. Of them, 13,613 voted for the pay reduction, while only 459 rejected it, or 96.7 percent for and 3.3 percent against.

Nuclear fuel transfer date unknown

COLUMBUS (AP) — Shipments across Ohio of spent nuclear fuel from a closed reclamation plant in New York to Wisconsin apparently have a legal green light, but authorities won't say when they will occur.

Rules governing shipments indicate they may not be complete until November 1984, and that the public won't learn of the transfer until 10 days after it is finished.

Federal court suits in Buffalo, N.Y., and Cleveland failed to delay transfer of 114 shipments of spent fuel rods from West Valley, N.Y., back to Wisconsin, where they are owned by Wisconsin Electric Power Co., which sent them east several years ago for reclamation. Also at issue are 236 shipments of spent rods to Commonwealth Edison in Illinois.

Fall weather allows faster harvest

CHAMPAIGN (AP) — A week of exceptionally warm, dry fall weather has allowed Illinois farmers to pick up the pace of the corn and soybean harvest and to plant a little more winter wheat.

Yields, especially corn, continue to be disappointing in many fields where the scorching summer took a heavy toll.

"They're pretty well along with the harvest ... ahead of schedule," said Ray Enken, farm adviser in Fulton County in Western Illinois.

But U.S. District Judge Bernard Decker upheld it. A three-judge panel of the 7th Circuit court agreed last Dec. 6, concluding that "the right to keep and bear handguns is not guaranteed by the Second Amendment."

The panel, which split 2-1 on the issue, relied heavily on a 1939 Supreme Court decision it interpreted as meaning that the constitutional right extends only to those weapons a militia might need.

The appeals court said it did not even have to reach that conclusion, however, because the Second Amendment is not a limitation on the powers of state or local governments — only Congress.

"Reasonable people may differ about the wisdom of (the Morton Grove) ordinance," the 7th Circuit court said. "Such issues, however, are not before the court. We simply hold that the ordinance is a proper exercise of Morton Grove's police power."

The dissenting judge voted to strike down the ordinance, saying it "has been shown to be necessary to protect the public welfare and thus violates the fundamental right to privacy."

The two-judge majority, however, said there is no fundamental right to possess a handgun.

appraisal system," would be for evaluating job performance. Pamela Brandt, personnel officer for compensation and position analysis, said the Hay study had recommended that the University have an appraisal system.

A performance appraisal committee has been appointed by the council to decide whether the University needs an "informal, everyday" appraisal system, Brandt said. SIU-C does not have a university-wide evaluation system.

Wirth said that he believes in an appraisal system but said it should be known how it will be used.

"If it is used to distribute merit pay, then it has some validity," Wirth said. "But how in-depth would it be?"

Wirth said "to say we need an evaluation system without saying what it's needed for doesn't make sense."

Brandt said the University hasn't signed a contract yet with Hay for the appraisal system.

The first step of the plan, job content evaluation, provided a point rating system for employees based on administrative levels and difficulties of jobs. In 1981 when the plan was approved, Somit said it was for developing a classification system and eventually a salary system for AP staff.

The compensation plan approved in May provided a way to make salaries "internally equitable and externally competitive" with those of comparable universities, according to Somit. The plan was to be "flexible but consistent" for controlling salary costs to maintain competitive pay levels.

Brandt said universities comparable to SIU-C are those that have operating budgets between $100 and $150 million annually.

Salaries of those below the minimum range were brought up to the midpoint level, Brandt said, as recommended by the Hay study.

Three sets of equity adjustments have been made for AP staff since March 1982 to hasten this process, Brandt said. One in April of this year and another in July raised all but three employees to the minimum level.

There are about 335 AP employees covered by the compensation plan.

operate the only natural gas pipeline.

Carle said the bill would require a company that has the only gas pipeline in a particular area to transport gas from other producers, as well as its own. This would enable utility companies and industrial users to shop around for the least expensive gas supplier, according to Carle.

Carle contended that present laws sometimes force consumers to purchase higher priced gas because it is the only type available.

For example, said Carle, a company may have to contract to use more liquefied gas, which is more expensive to ship and store, because cheaper, more abundant forms cannot be piped in.

Brady scheduled to visit family home

CENTRALIA (AP) — White House press secretary James Brady will return next week to the house where he grew up for a five-day visit with family and friends.

The trip to Centralia will be Brady's first visit home since he was shot in the head during an assassination attempt on President Reagan in March 1961.

Brady, 43, is scheduled to arrive by car next Monday with his wife, Sarah, and son, Scott, 4. A nurse will accompany them.

Brady's mother, Dorothy, 76, said Monday that a police escort will bring Brady into town where the Centralia High School band will welcome him.

Some of Brady's friends have formed a committee and are organizing other activities for his visit, she said.

"He is thrilled to death," Mrs. Brady said of her son's trip home. "... He is so excited over it that I just hope everything goes all right."

Brady will stay at his mother's home until Friday, when he leaves to attend homecoming festivities at the University of Illinois in Champaign. Brady graduated from the school in 1962 with a journalism degree.

Brady's wife said last week from their home in Arlington, Va., that Brady is continuing therapy as he recovers from the shooting. Until now, she said, her husband's condition made it almost impossible for him to return home for a visit.

"Jim is thrilled to be coming home to Centralia — he can't wait," she said. "He's very anxious to get home to see his mother and friends."

Mrs. Brady said her husband works one day each week at his White House office and is looking forward to returning to work full time.

Bus-route abandonment hurts Southern Illinois, Simon says

John Schrag
Staff Writer

In an effort to stop further loss of rural bus service in areas such as Southern Illinois, U.S. Rep. Paul Simon has proposed legislation that could make it tougher for bus companies to reduce or eliminate service.

The proposal, which is supported by several Illinois Congressmen and Sens. Alan Dixon and Charles Percy, would require that earlier warning be given to the state by bus lines which are considering reducing or eliminating service.

The proposal would make amendments to the bus deregulation act which was supported by Simon and adopted by Congress a year ago.

Simon has claimed that the deregulation bill has led to the discontinuation of bus routes through nearly 100 communities in Illinois and about 1,300 communities nationwide.

David Carle, Simon's press

aide, said that an amendment similar to the one now being proposed was deleted from the deregulation bill after the bill's authors assured Congress that "massive abandonment" of bus routes would not occur.

But, according to Simon, abandonment has occurred and it has hurt Southern Illinois. In the past year, eight bus routes have been abandoned in Illinois, according to the Illinois Commerce Commission. Three of those cut through Southern Illinois: Gulf Transport's Carbondale to Evansville route and Greyhound's St. Louis to Evansville and Chicago to St. Louis routes.

The amendments would basically provide a six-month waiting period between the time when a bus company announces its plan and when the state makes a decision. In Illinois, there is currently a four-month wait.

The additional time would allow state and local communities to gather more information about the use of a route and come up with alternative transportation or subsidy plans, Carle said.

He said supporters of the proposal hope that it will help ensure the continuation of less-profitable routes, such as the Gulf Transport route between Carbondale and Springfield.

A Gulf Transport official said that although ridership has declined on the daily route there are no plans to reduce or eliminate it.

"The passenger count has decreased some but I don't see any problems with it at this time," said D.A. Allen, superintendent of operations at the Gulf station in St. Louis.

He said the Carbondale-Springfield route is popular among SIU-C students. The bus leaves Carbondale at 7:10 a.m. and arrives in Springfield at 11:10 a.m. At Springfield, passengers can transfer to another bus which arrives in Chicago at 3:35 p.m.

Two arrested for theft of bell

A man running down the street with a bell under his arm probably doesn't mean much to Carbondale residents anymore.

Saturday night, however, at least one citizen found such a scene a bit unusual and reported it to the police.

The result was the arrests of Phillip V. Lyons, 19, and Jeffrey

D. Ehret, 20, both of Neely Hall in University Park, for theft under $300, according to Carbondale police.

The stolen property was the bell off the roof of Taco Bell, 412 E. Walnut St.

Police said Lyons was arrested by a Illinois State Police officer after a report at 11:34 p.m. that a man was running from the restaurant with a bell under his arm.

Lyons had reportedly discarded the bell before his arrest but showed the state trooper where he left it and said his roommate, Ehret, was involved in the theft, police said.

Court says hospital won't have to pay child's costs

By James H. Rubin
Of the Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, faced with its first-ever "wrongful birth" case, has refused to let parents of a child born after an unsuccessful sterilization recover the cost of rearing the child.

The court, without comment, on Monday turned away the appeal of a couple who filed a negligence lawsuit in Illinois.

State courts threw out the claim for rearing costs, but said the couple is entitled to be paid medical and other expenses related to childbirth and pregnancy if there was negligence.

But the state courts said that even if there was negligence, the couple could not recover rearing costs from a hospital accused of malpractice.

The Illinois Supreme Court ruled last February that "in a hierarchy of values the benefit of life should not be outweighed by the expense of supporting it. Respect for life and the rights proceeding from it are at the heart of our legal system and, broader still, our civilization."

That ruling overturned a state appeals court which said the parents should be compensated for rearing the child.

The appeals court said: "Ethical and moral considerations aside, the cause before us is analytically indistinguishable from an ordinary medical malpractice action.

"The allowance of rearing costs is not an aspersions upon the value of the child's life," the court said. "It is instead a recognition of the importance of the parents' fundamental right to control their reproductivity."

The state appeals court said the state Supreme Court acted in two suits, involving separate couples but a related issue. Only one of the couples, Edna and Afzal Raja, appealed the ruling to the nation's highest court.

The Rajas formerly lived in Chicago but now reside in Long Beach, Calif.

A tubal cauterization was performed on Mrs. Raja in 1972 to prevent her from conceiving.

Five years later, she went to the Michael Reese Gynecology Clinic in Chicago because she was experiencing symptoms of pregnancy. She was told she was not pregnant.

She returned to the clinic two months later and was told that she was pregnant and that it was too late to have a medically safe abortion.

Mrs. Raja, already the mother of four from a previous marriage, gave birth to a healthy girl in 1977.

The Rajas sued the physician who performed the cauterization, but that suit was thrown out because it was barred by the statute of limitations. The suit against the hospital was the issue taken to the U.S. Supreme Court.

In the other case considered by the Illinois Supreme Court, a suit was brought by Donna and Leon Cockrum of Grayslake, Ill. Mrs. Cockrum became pregnant about two months after a vasectomy was performed on her husband to make him sterile. She gave birth to a healthy boy, Matthew, four years ago.

The Cockrums sued Dr. George Baumgartner, who had performed the unsuccessful vasectomy.

Reagan missile talk twists Soviets' arms

WITH THE DEPLOYMENT of Pershing II and cruise missiles in Europe imminent, President Reagan is trying to come off as a "peacenik."

Stating in a speech to the United Nations General Assembly last week that he is "preoccupied with peace," Reagan outlined several new arms reduction proposals that he hopes will be not so much accepted by the Soviets as by the Western Europeans — as a counter to anti-Reagan-policy sentiment in those nations.

After deployment of Pershing II's in December, that opposition could take a violent twist — public violence that the Soviets hope will sway Western European governments against U.S. policies. So Reagan is trying to assert allied harmony before the lid blows off.

THE PROPOSALS, HOWEVER, are far from substantially effective.

The president called for all major powers to disengage from hostilities in the Third World. While this is a noble request, no one believes it can happen. But it makes great political copy.

Other U.S. proposals ring with a willingness to compromise. Unfortunately, though, they are compromises the Soviets will not accept.

The president is willing to focus strictly on Soviet missiles aimed at the European continent, effectively leaving the U.S.S.R.'s Asian-based missiles off the agenda. He is also willing to come to an agreement with the Soviets on the number of planes in Europe, as well as missiles. And he has left the door open for reduction in the number of Pershing II and cruise missiles scheduled for deployment in December.

BUT ONE POINT Reagan is unwilling to compromise on is an effective means of bilateral verification of warhead numbers. He cites rigidity in arms control on the part of the Soviets, Soviet cheating on past agreements and the downing of the Korean airliner as reasons for his distrust of the Soviets.

Reagan's rhetoric may be reassuring to some. But rhetoric does not lessen the threat of a nuclear holocaust. The president offered proposals he knew the Soviets would not accept. By making those proposals, he has put the burden of international concern over the arms race on the Soviets, and may have mollified some of the inevitable opposition to Pershing II and cruise deployment in Europe.

Sin sermons don't belong in DE

Why do I find sermons about the sinfulness of homosexuality in the letters to the editor column of the Daily Egyptian and the Southern Illinoisian?

I would be interested in debate on the issue of the civil rights of lesbians and gay men, but that is not a religious issue, it is a political one.

The sinfulness of any act is a matter of belief. I think the pages of the Daily Egyptian are an inappropriate place for the publication of religious teachings. — Dr. Margaret H. Childs, Assistant Professor of Japanese.

Grade question a misunderstanding

The question of grades in the College of Education (compared with other units in the University) is perhaps clouded by a misunderstanding of norm-referenced and criterion-referenced grading systems.

When grades are used as a "sorting" mechanism, it is appropriate to use a normal distribution system which identifies where each student performs in relation to peers. In this system "C" is, by definition, the mean, median and mode. This is appropriate in many cases, such as in determining admission to graduate level programs and awarding honors.

When, however, the purpose of grades is to ascertain whether any student has reached a certain level of competency, then a criterion-referenced system is employed. Nationwide, citizens are concerned about the competency levels of students (and their teachers). To meet that challenge, most courses in teacher education programs are now set up with minimum competencies required in order to get a grade of A or B; sliding by with C-level knowledge or skill is just not good enough for those who will be teaching our future generations! A student who performs at the stated level of competence has the potential for being an excellent teacher for our children.

What appears to be grade inflation to those accustomed to norm-referenced grading represents instead a tightening of requirements and setting performance criteria which students must demonstrate in order to obtain their grades and continue in the program. — Lyn Muldoon, Graduate Student, Higher Education.

MAPP says thanks for benefit help

Mid-America Peace Project would like to give a big round of applause and a sincere "Thank You" to the merchants, bands, Hangar 9, and Robbie Stokes.

Mid-America Peace held a benefit at Hangar 9 this past Monday evening. Richard and Sally of Hangar 9 were very helpful in setting up the event and suggesting distributors to donate gifts. The merchants were generous and their gifts unique. Some of the gifts were a bicycle tune-up at Campus Cycle, filet mignons from Arnolds, and breakfast at Papa C's. Many thanks to the other merchants who contributed to our cause.

A very special thanks to our bands. The bands, After Dark, Critical Mass, and Nik Flesh and the Young Americans donated their talents, which made the evening an enjoyable affair. Nick and Tom Naas donated their talents with excellent harmonies and folk music and Stanley Davis struck chords of memory with his 60s anti-war music. — Jayce Fry, Treasurer, Mid-America Peace Project.

Time again for cynicism, random shots

TIME. ONCE AGAIN, for random shots and scattered thoughts, or, as one of my most avid fans so succinctly put it, it is time for the University to "bear the brunt of mindless cynicism".

— Why is the football stadium painted pink? I mean really, has our maroon faded, or is that sickly color supposed to weaken the opposition by laughter. In that case I suggest candy stripes. A real man's color is blood-and-gore scarlet with a little dirt rubbed in.

— I like the obnoxious speakers at the North end of the Student Center. The crowds they get are more attentive than the students in class at nearby Faner Hall. Besides, every once in a while we need a little sermon on the sins of fornication, alcohol and devil rock and roll — it keeps them interesting.

— IF HOMOSEXUALS want to have a gay church, why not? The fundamentalists make no bones about snake-handlers. Believers in faith healing withhold medication from their children while waiting for a miracle from God. So why shouldn't gays be able to worship their own brand of god chains around the sidewalks? Everyone is going to walk where they want anyway. How about using that money for some lightbulbs on the Brightway Path.

— I hope James Watt stays in office. If he leaves, someone slicker might get in to help Reagan rape the environment. And, you have to admit, he's great copy.

— President Reagan will bring us out of these economic hard times if it costs all the marines in Lebanon. Nothing like a neat little war to step up industrial production at home.

— THE USO is the most ineffectual unorganized organization ever to grace a campus directory. But they do manage to pass inoperable resolutions and spend lots of money. The students of SIU—C don't give a damn about student directories, savings cards, clean-up days or any of the other garbage that the USO calls accomplishments. They care about rising tuition and fees, grade inflation, improved programs and better teachers. Cut the crap and do something constructive, or admit that you're a Mickey Mouse operation and give your money to SPC so the students can get something out of it.

— How can a political party that names itself after a prophylactic expect to give birth to any good ideas? Trojans and sterility go hand in hand.

— WHY DOESN'T THE CIA arrange a war between Cuba and Syria, then all we would have to do is sit back and blast them both for being so barbaric. — Hooray for the clean-up of Thompson Woods. It was really starting to look like Mirkwood. I was expecting sexually deviant orcs to jump out at any time. Unfortunately, the clean-up also eliminated a lot of mid-day party spots.

— I like Kenny Gray. In the past he has done a lot for Southern Illinois, and himself. He refuses to take money under the table. He lays it on top for everyone to see and gripe about. — The Sox will blow out L.A. to win the series, and finish in the basement next year. Go Braves.

— I LOVE TO PARTY. I love to socialize, especially with members of the opposite sex. I hate hypocrites. How can a student senator who professes to serve the student body be so obsessed with making money off his constituents from illegal parties? If you're going to invite the world, have a beertruck and charge $2 admission, call it a bar and pay for the license. Don't call it a party. SIU football is great. Go Dogs! It has been so long since SIU had a bona fide winner that McAndrew Stadium should overflow next Saturday. I don't mind the fee increase if we can keep winning. Our special team play alone deserves a bonus.

— With the predominance of rape in Carbondale, self-defense for women should be a required GSE course. "Kick to the Groin 101" would be one way that women could directly combat the rise of rape at SIU.

— The Carbondale City Council is a slow-moving, frequently intelligent species that will do the best it can — in due time — for the students of this university. Halloween is one example. Helel, I'll buy you a drink. But only if you dance with me on Grand Avenue.

Take a stand against nuclear destruction

I was listening to the radio the other day while setting up my room for the new school year. I had been tacking up posters when this song came on the radio that sent a chill up my spine. I had heard the tune many times before, but it had never occurred to me that it was anything more than just another tear-jerker love song.

Oh, but the words came ringing true to my ears this time. It is a love song, but it is not "just another silly love song" as Paul McCartney would call it. It is a tune by the Fixx, a fairly new rock n-roll band from England, and it's about the '80s generation.

The poster that I had been hanging up was a drawing of Uncle Sam as a skeleton with a handful of missiles offering them over the edge of the globe to Western Europe. Western Europe was depicted as a hand with a white glove on, shaking back and forth as if to say "no thank you." The missiles were, of course, the Cruise and Pershing II intermediate range strategic weapons being offered as a counterbalance to the new Soviet SS-20's (the placement of which will be decided by December of this year).

The song in the background cried, "It's the Europe theater! Stand or fall, state your peace tonight." It is a song that cries for the children who must grow up in the shadows of ICBMs. With massive death and destruction just minutes away, the children do not give a damn about anything. Their grandparents are flustered and unable to answer the many "why" questions.

This is the reason that I have joined the Mid-America Peace Project. I cannot defend the need for the maintenance of huge stockpiles of nuclear warheads. I am not so naive as to think that nuclear weapons will ever go away, but do we really need so many? Can national security really be measured in megatons? I think not.

Rather than join the swollen ranks of the apathetic I have decided to help fill the ranks of the activists. For the most part, one person cannot normally make any difference. However, when people join together to fight for what is right, more often than not they cannot be stopped. Come join us, for it is better to be active today than radioactive tomorrow.

Contact the Mid-America Peace Project, third floor of the Student Center, or call 453-5215 for more information. — Andrew J. Leighton, Junior, Political Science.

Gays: They're at it again

The gay and lesbian folk are at it again with their silly little antics. I am writing this on behalf of myself and, I hope, the so-called "straights" of Carbondale. The article in the Sept. 29 Daily Egyptian is infuriating, and I would like to know when all this stupidity is going to end.

Blue Jean Day — such original clothing. Half of the SIU students don't own anything but jeans. You "un-straights" should be tactful. Go out of your way to prove your own sickness! For example, gay males should wear something like panty hose and a tutu, the gay females should wear something like construction boots and flannel T-shirts. Originality will probably get you new members.

I also wonder about some of those facts quoted in the article. It sounds like you GLPUs (Gay, Lesbian People's Union) are recruiting for Uncle Sam's military. For example, "60 percent of all American college students have had homosexual relationships." Where was this poll taken at, Biff's Fine School of Acting? Then the line about educating the straight is really blind. I don't think we straights need to be educated because if homosexuality is normal, why didn't God put two Adams, or two Eves on this world to frolic around with. The actual purpose of sex is reproduction; it is like magnets. Opposites attract. Face it, GLPUs, you are going against all laws of nature.

Well, you GLPUs are in luck because it is anti-gay liberation army week. That means no one really cares about your childish games. Personally, I am not going to wear jeans because my morals won't let me. But on the other hand, maybe I'll wear my jeans and wear a sign saying "I am glad I don't have AIDS." I think it is terrible the way you degrade the human race. I guess I am a firm believer in locking your kind in a closet, and throwing the key away. — Michael J. Hinchliffe, Junior, Avionics.

Jeans day unfair

In a recent Daily Egyptian, Ray Bradford of the Gay and Lesbian People's Union Steering Committee was quoted as saying "On Thursday (Oct. 6), everyone who supports the right to live an alternate, gay lifestyle should wear blue jeans."

Unfortunately many students either don't know about Thursday or else own nothing but blue jeans; these people will be counted as supporters, and I find this unfair. It would be just as unfair for me to say "Everyone who supports Reagan should go the Strip on Halloween." In both cases something nearly everyone does is used to show support for something that not everyone might agree with. I believe that the GLPU should re-examine this idea and pick something more distinctive to show support for their ideas. Otherwise, they are being unfair to themselves because there will be no accurate way for them to determine actual success. — Michael A. Phillips, Non-supporter, Sophomore, Computer Science.

Beer will make the party bigger ...

By Morgan Falkner
Student Writer

It has been a tradition for almost 11 years, and despite efforts by the Carbondale Police and City Council, it has remained the biggest event in town.

I am referring, of course, to Halloween — Carbondale style. With crowds estimated at between 10,000 and 15,000 annually, there are no signs that, as sports commentator Don Meredith puts it, "the party's over."

It is a nationwide attraction, and one of the largest Halloween celebrations in the country.

If it were up to the council, however, the party would be over. Since 1980, ordinances have been passed by the council in an attempt to control the October festivities. The council passed an ordinance in 1980 limiting the hours that bars on South Illinois Avenue may stay open, and another ordinance prohibiting the sales of beer and "pop" wine in glass containers during the week prior to Halloween.

In 1981, the noise level ordinance made famous by last year's police raids on Oak Street parties was passed. Also, a related ordinance prohibited taking donations at house parties to pay for kegs.

These ordinances have proved to be more successful at inconveniencing Carbondale partiers than in limiting Halloween weekend.

Now, finally, it seems the council has come to the realization that it can't stop Halloween outright. So the council has passed yet another Halloween ordinance — one that's long overdue.

The ordinance will permit six beer booths to be set up on Grand Avenue Oct. 28 and 29, the Friday and Saturday prior to Halloween. The measure is a clear move by the council to alleviate congestion on South Illinois Avenue created by the inevitable mass of people. With beer booths strategically placed on Grand Avenue, the council just might get what it wants.

THIS IS NOT to say that the Strip will be barren — far from it, the Strip will be as alive as in the past. But with a viable attraction for students — and let's face it, anything short of alcohol won't attract anyone — not only will the Halloween celebration be expanded but the city will make money as well. Actually, it might not profit, but Halloween revenues will help defray the cost when clean-up time arrives.

The council, it seems, has decided to take an "if we can't beat 'em, join 'em" attitude, and the results should be favorable for the students and the council alike.

... but not necessarily any better

By Debbie Colburn
Staff Writer

Black cats, vampire bats, witch's brew, goblins too. Excitement begins with the turning of the calendar. Children plan their costumes, parents plan the treats and worry whether they'll get tricked. Yet Halloween isn't what it used to be, especially for Carbondale's children.

The time of scary fun and excitement has ebbed away from the meaning of Halloween and in its place has come an excuse to throw a party — not just any party, but a party that draws crowds from all over the country.

This year the gala event isn't limited to Illinois Avenue, but will be expanded to Grand Avenue, thus multiplying old problems.

Six beer booths, complete with portable toilets, will line Grand Avenue. I have no objection to the potties, but the beer booths are another matter.

ARE BEER BOOTHS really necessary? Aren't there already enough places to buy alcoholic beverages lining both sides of Illinois Avenue? Why must another street be left reeking of booze, cigarette smoke, trash and vomit?

With an increased area to party also comes an increased area to patrol. More patrolmen are needed — the cost to the city climbs. SIUC

Security Police will be out in full force and the city police will beef up their patrol.

And partiers won't be the only ones waking up with headaches, either. Only a few short hours after the party dies down, clean-up begins. In 1980, about $8,000 was spent on extra police and city clean-up. Cost has been rising with each year. How much more will it cost to clean up and patrol a larger area?

ONCE THE PARTY'S over, a quick glance at the newspaper will show the increase in crimes and injuries that occurred over the weekend. In 1981, the weekend brought 36 arrests and 85 injuries related to the activities. One of these injuries occurred when a young man tried to jump on a moving train and had to have his leg amputated. Everybody knows Carbondale's a wild place, but are these the kind of things we want people to recall when they think of our city?

I'm not foolish enough to suggest that the city try to phase out Halloween. That was tried and didn't work. Yet the city seems to be adopting an "if you can't beat 'em, join 'em" attitude which really isn't going to be profitable either.

EXPANDING the party area is a mistake. It'll cost the city more in money, manpower and reputation and no city can afford those kind of expenses, even for one weekend out of the year.

Director pushes for realism

By Debra Calburn
Staff Writer

The director sat watching a rehearsal of "Much Ado About Nothing" with an intense, energetic concentration. Calvin MacLean stood up, called out and the action stopped.

He sprinted down the aisle, catapulted onto the stage and immediately became Claudio as he led the other actors through the scene.

MacLean, a visiting assistant professor in theater, directed Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing," which ran last weekend at McLeod Theater.

He said he thought the play went well and was pleased with the way it turned out.

"The best thing about it is that people seem to be interested in Shakespeare again," he said.

The strongest aspect of his direction is that he can usually come up with action that is natural and believable, but also revealing of a situation and character, he said.

This was illustrated during rehearsal when one character slapped another. The actor who was struck stumbled back and fell to the floor. MacLean was on the stage in an instant helping the actor work through a more realistic way to react to the slap.

The 30-year-old Detroit native's mother was an entertainer and his father was a salesman. MacLean spent six years at the University of Michigan where he earned bachelors and masters of art degrees.

He went on to the University of Massachusetts where he received a master of fine arts degree in directing.

MacLean worked with the Illinois Shakespeare Festival and with a children's theater in Montana before coming to SIU-C in the fall of 1981. He will continue his work here indefinitely.

Speaking of directing, he said, "There is no single way to direct a play."

He usually begins preparing to direct by reading the play several times. Each time looking at different aspects of production.

"Then I start thinking about what it is that will really communicate to an audience," MacLean said. "As you start working on it, you discover all kinds of problems you hadn't thought about."

He said sometimes making theater work is a happy accident, even though a lot of preparation goes into making that accident happen.

"I'm a mess when opening night comes along," he said. "I need a way to spend all that nervous energy. I just sort of have to sit on my hands and pray to God that the lights are right, that the actors don't trip over something and that the theater doesn't catch on fire."

Rick Williams, assistant professor in classics, has acted in two plays MacLean directed. Williams said of MacLean: "I'm convinced he's special. He is different from most directors. He has a particular genius."

"There's something of an alarming incongruity about him because he is young, he looks young, he acts young, he doesn't appear to carry the woes of the world on his shoulders," Williams continued. "Yet, the young whipper snapper has pondered them and resolved a way of dealing with them in such a way that he can turn those woes into art. He also throws a good cast party."

Directing isn't the only place that MacLean exercises his talents — he also spends time teaching.

He said he enjoys teaching and loves dealing with students and seeing them get excited about their work. He will be devoting the rest of the semester to classroom work.

Lin Dennis, a graduate student in theater who has worked with him on stage and in the classroom, said MacLean is demanding but not a dictator.

"He is tremendously patient," she said. "I wait for him sometimes to blow his top and he doesn't."

Brent Lappin, also a graduate student in theater said, "He knows his craft. It is fascinating to work with him. He is always thinking."

Rogers to return to Arena Nov. 4; sell-out anticipated

Sell-out entertainer Kenny Rogers will return to Carbondale Friday, Nov. 4 for an encore performance in-the-round at the Arena.

Rogers' last Carbondale show in 1981 was a sell-out, and the Arena anticipates another rapid sell-out this year. Tickets will be offered at the same price as two years ago — $15, with a limited number of $12.50 seats.

Rogers has spiced up his concerts compared to the last time he was here. The November performance will include special guests B.J. Thomas and The Righteous Brothers. It will also feature video footage on several "screens of Rogers' wife Marianne and their infant son.

Tickets for this unique evening of family entertainment go on sale Monday, Oct. 10 at 8 a.m. at the Arena South Lobby Box-Office. There will be no line reservation cards issued. Phone orders will be accepted Oct. 11.

Jazz recital set Wednesday

Jazz trumpeter Terrence McKinney and the Creative Arts Ensemble will perform at 8 p.m. Wednesday, in Shryock Auditorium.

McKinney, a graduate in music is performing his second recital, which will feature two of his compositions: "Royal Flush" and "One for Dizzy Gillespie."

The latter composition reflects McKinney's musical influence. McKinney said he considers Gillespie a phenomenal trumpet player, "the greatest ever," and as the creative force in jazz today.

The Creative Arts ensemble consists of Rick McCoy on piano, Brent Wallarab on trombone, Leah Henchcliff on bass and Daryl Berry on percussion.

In addition to Dizzy, McKinney said the primary influences on his music have been Clifford Brown and Lee Morgan. The styles and influences he prefers are be-bop and cool jazz.

McKinney's first live performance was at the age of 13, in his hometown of Detroit, he said. He also played with the now defunct Carbondale group Dr. Bombay. He plans to finish his studies here and has hopes of someday "making it" on Broadway.

Trustees cancel October session

The SIU Board of Trustees canceled its Oct. 11 meeting.

Nothing on the agenda was "pressing" and there were so few items that the board decided to hold business over until November, according to Sharon Holmes, executive secretary to the board.

The board will next meet on Nov. 10 in Edwardsville.

Oingo Boingo offers dance tunes

By Joe Walter
Staff Writer

Oingo Boingo's latest vinyl effort "Good for Your Soul" has to be the best dance alternative to the Euro-disco-synth-beat that has been around in nauseating abundance this year.

Oingo Boingo incorporates an irregular ska beat with singular sounding blasts from the horn section and layers it further with bare keyboards.

The octet, led by Danny Elfman, creates some of the most distinctive ska music available. That is quite a claim since ska can easily become redundant.

Elfman wrote the songs on this album, which deliver some quirky dance tunes and slower numbers that avoid sounding like reggae — score one for originality. The music is combined with funny lyrics stating old hat new wave themes like conformity, war and of course 1984 (Hey! It's only three months away) in a decidedly off-beat way.

"Little Guns," for example, contains an off the wall anti-war

Album Review

sentiment: "Tiny soldiers, with little guns; Little tanks, no bigger than your thumb... little airplanes, with tiny bombs; little squadrons, dropping thimbles of napalm; they want you." It sounds like armed conflict in Munchkinland.

"No Spill Blood" offers the listener a scenario of primitive men obeying the mindless law of conformity seemingly written in stone. To break the law means to face "ridicule, laughter and a trip to the house of pain."

Though the lyrics are witty and irreverent, they lack the imagery one would associate with great rock or even ska. This brings to mind "Synchronicity" by the Police. The lyrics on that album are not only intelligent and at times witty, the words also describe images, themes and emotions with rich clarity.

No such universal imagery is present here but the lyrics still beat the trite omnipresent banality exhibited by the words oozing like sticky sap from groups like Journey or REO. The lyrics here also beat the pants off of most of what has been offered by the Euro-disco bands like Haricot 100 and Culture Club, which deserve a gut-wrenching "Yeech!"

In the face of the music explosion presently happening, Oingo Boingo may not be the best act around but it's definitely worthwhile and definitely distinctive. Oingo Boingo outclasses most of the dance music available.

Traveling minister says rock music evil

By John Racine
Staff Writer

Bob Duval was spreading the word that rock 'n' roll music was evil.

By the time he had finished his 30-minute speech in the mid-day heat Wednesday, a small group of persons had stopped to listen to what the Maranatha Christian traveling minister had to say.

One young man stepped forward.

"Just what's wrong with rock music?" he asked.

After a little pondering the 6-foot 4-inch former insurance salesman responded. "Well," he laughed, "maybe you had better reword that to say, what isn't wrong with rock music."

That night Duval continued his crusade of warning college students about the evil of rock music. Nearly 150 persons gathered in Ballroom B of the Student Center to hear what the born-again preacher had to say.

"Rock 'n' roll has left the entertainment business and has entered into the stages of being a religion," he said. "It has its own prophets, priests and kings. It has its dogmas and its do's and don'ts. And if that offends you then you can leave right now."

No one headed for the exits. "Music is a powerful force today," he continued. "It has influence in a variety of ways. Everywhere you go there is music. If you go to a football game there is music. It's everywhere."

"The power of music goes beyond the physical," he said. "We know that it has definite effects on the physical being of a person. Now there is more evidence that it also affects a person mentally and more important, spiritually."

"The influence of music has never been neutral and never will be," he proclaimed. As an example Duval cited the music of Bob Dylan, saying "music like this means something."

"It's like Jimi Hendrix once said, music is spiritual. It can hypnotize people and it can make them do whatever you want by talking to their subconscious," he said.

Rock music "talks to our subconscious" in several ways, he said. Most obviously through the lyrics. Duval played the song "Highway to Hell" to illustrate his point. The song, which is the title track to AC-DC's first LP, has distinct wording that invites the listener to "join us on the highway to Hell."

Duval also played samples of music by Black Sabbath, Styx and the Electric Light Orchestra.

According to Duval, another common way that "messages" make it onto records is a technique known as "back masking." This method involves reversing a message on a record's sound track, he said.

Many of the students in the audience, some of whom were wearing jerseys and T-shirts proclaiming concert themes, doubted the credibility of what Duval said because they felt many of his claims were unfounded.

"What you're saying is just a bunch of generalization," said one to Duval.

"I don't think those records said what you said they did," another said. "I sit here and listened to what you played and I couldn't make out some of the things that you said were supposed to be there."

Duval explained that part of the problem was technical difficulties with the sound system. At times his voice could be heard on only one of the two speakers set on each side of the podium.

The symbols on the cover of an album are another way that the rock industry influences people, he said.

He cited the pentagram that is common on the LP covers for groups such as Rush as evidence of the influence much rock music has.

"The pentagram," he said "is a symbol used to call or conjure up demonic spirits."

"Now some people are gonna turn to me and say 'Bob, you know that that's just a gimmick to get people to buy the record. And all I have to say is sure. Some of it's going to be for the sake of sales, but not all of it."

"There's a reason why I believe that it's intentional," he continued. "Rock musicians want to mock something that is powerful. Why mock someone like Buddha? Buddha isn't powerful but God is."

Duval will present another program on rock 'n' roll at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Ballroom B of the Student Center. His visit to SIUC is sponsored by the Maranatha Christian Center.

As a Marine Officer, you could be in charge of a Mach 2 + F/A-18A, a vertical take-off Harrier or one of our other jets or helicopters. And you could do it by the time you're 23. But it takes a special commitment on your part. We demand leaders at all levels. We teach you to be one. If you're a freshman or sophomore, ask about our undergraduate officer commissioning programs. If you're a junior, check out our graduate programs. Starting salaries are from $17,000 to $23,000. And you can count on going farther.. faster.

Funding reductions trim staff, services of LRS

By Bob Tita
Student Writer

When a slide projector breaks down this year, a quick repair job is not guaranteed.

If a faculty member needs help in processing research data, the graduate student who helped last year may have been laid off.

When an instructor wants to show a film, the paperwork will take two days longer. The film will cost the academic department $5 an hour for the services of a student worker.

These are some of the effects of budget cuts in the Learning Resources Service, according to Douglas Bedient, director of the service.

Funding reductions have forced the service to trim nine staff members and leave one faculty position unfilled. A reduction in student workers was also made, according to Bedient.

Funds for staffing were reduced about $150,000 and money for student wages was cut about $11,000, Bedient said. Two percent of the Learning Resources budget that was put aside in a reserve fund was eliminated.

The total budget for Library Affairs was cut about $243,000. Of this amount, about $150,000 was slashed from Learning Resources, according to Kenneth Peterson, dean of library affairs.

Peterson said the decision to cut the Learning Resources budget was made by John Guyon, vice president for academic affairs.

Last year, University officials set up a Non-Academic Priorities Committee. Part of that committee's purpose was to help administrators identify areas where the budget could be cut.

In the spring, the committee reported that funding for Learning Resources should be "maintained at current levels." Guyon nevertheless cut the LRS budget, which amounted to three-fifths of the total cut from Morris Library.

Guyon said he didn't agree with the committee's recommendations on Learning Resources. He said maintaining the collection of books and periodicals and the number of personnel have priority over the service.

The Graduate and Professional Student Council and the Faculty Senate also said funds to maintain the collections should be allocated.

"It's unfortunate one of the major library units has to suffer such a fate," Bedient said.

The service is important to many disciplines and interests within the campus community.

"You can get everything here from projectors to consultation on teaching, studying and learning," Bedient said.

The Self-Instruction Center, Student Media Design Lab, a film library and repair of audio-visual equipment are some of the services offered by Learning Resources. LRS faculty also helps in instructing teaching assistants in the College of Engineering and other departments.

"The faculty in this unit have a good record in being involved in instructional programs," Bedient said.

Bedient said that this year three fewer repair technicians will be available to repair audio-visual equipment. The service in the past has repaired equipment for the entire campus. However, with only one full-time technician and student workers, LRS will barely be able to keep its own inventory in repair, Bedient said.

Reality, government statistics don't jibe in economic picture

By John Cunneiff
Associated Press Writer

outstanding in August at the same time that auto sales declined.

NEW YORK — In this day of instant, computer-derived numbers, a lot of statistics seem not to add up.

The ubiquitous and often anonymous "analysts," who seem to be quoted all the time, are dodging interviews as they seek to determine what to make out of these apparently conflicting numbers.

When big computers were first used to track the billions of pieces of data that government uses to build a picture of the economy, it was thought that numbers were hard things that wouldn't bend.

There is, however, a type of statistics watcher who is accustomed to conflicts and mysteries and who, nevertheless, remains on the battle front. He is the Fed Watcher, the person who each week awaits the Federal Reserve report on the nation's money supply, hoping to find in the numbers some guidance to the economy's direction over the weeks to follow.

Maybe they don't, but something happens to them that can't always be explained easily. And big decisions are made on the basis of numbers.

That he receives conflicting reports never seems to daunt him, nor does it discourage the millions of people who avidly follow the reports on whether M1 and other symbols of money in circulation have risen or fallen.

There are some obvious explanations. Early reports of retail sales, for example, are subject to revision because of additional data. And data on jobs are subject to seasonal adjustments by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. And those who follow job statistics know that the number of people actually employed can fall, while the seasonally adjusted jobless rate also falls. That is, that the job picture can weaken while the statistic strengthens.

It's all done in an attempt to understand... to create order where no order can otherwise be discerned.

Statistician Albert Sindinger likes to say, that seasonally adjusted, Lake Erie never freezes over.

But when you consider that sometimes the numerical symbols might be wrong, and that some of them will be revised or adjusted, and that some of them also are derived from subjective assumptions, you are entitled to wonder.

But what do you do, other than scratch your head, when you are presented with these statistics, as you were during the past month:

To wonder, for example, if the numbers really clarify, or if, perhaps, they might not add to the confusion.

16th in the NCAA Division I poll. SIU-C dropped the match in straight games, 7-15, 9-15 and 8-15.

The Salukis then took on Louisiana State, not ranked by the NCAA. Hunter estimated LSU to be the biggest team in the Knoxville tournament and probably the strongest in the personnel department. The Fighting Tigers claimed the match in four games, 15-17, 15-6, 11-15, 2-15.

The Salukis claimed their only win of the tourney against Duke, disposing of the Blue Devils in four games, 11-15, 15-6, 15-7, 15-4.

In the closing match, SIU-C faced Kentucky, ranked fifth in the NCAA. The Salukis managed to wrestle the first game from the Wildcats, 15-13, before dropping the last three games 10-15, 5-15, 10-15.

Hunter said she wasn't really surprised that her squad nabbed a game from the highly-touted Kentucky club.

"Kentucky was a little flat," Hunter said. "We showed a lot of poise, we didn't buckle to them. There's no comparison in the force and authority in their attacking game, though.

"We played great defense against them and kept a lot of balls in play. We managed to keep them off balance and we played them tough all the way through. But they eventually got the best of us by their ability to get up and over the net."

Hunter said the team's serving and passing, which has been similar to the path of a rollercoaster, to say the least, was looking better at the tournament over the weekend.

"We had more control in our serving," she said. "There've been times we've served more aggressively, but we're coming back in that direction."

The Saluki coach said her team could possibly have salvaged a win in the match against Tennessee.

"The way Tennessee played, if we had just played a little above average we could have beaten them," Hunter said. "It was the same with LSU. We played above average for awhile, but not for a long duration.

"We're wanting to convert every attempt into a scoring situation, instead of relying on our defense and waiting for a better opportunity. We need to be more patient and rally longer."

Hunter said one reason for the team's 6-12 record might be the schedule.

"Appearances are that when I did the scheduling a year ago I was a bit overzealous," she said. "We still haven't had the kind of weekend we're seeking out. We're toying with playing our best against the best."

The coach said she still isn't discounting the possibility of a .500 season for her team. A boost for the team will be a schedule break that will allow for practice time that the Salukis haven't had for several weeks.

"So far we've wanted to do what was necessary to plan for the conference championship," Hunter said.

The Salukis will now have to work with two pitchers for the remainder of the fall season, which ends next weekend in Joliet. The Salukis lost veteran pitcher Meredith Stengel four weeks ago as Stengel decided to work on an internship in New York. Brechtelsbauer said that Sunny Clark and Eileen Maloney will pitch the rest of the games.

The Salukis' first game last weekend was against Missouri, and Brechtelsbauer's club lost 3-0. Maloney (0-2) started the game but was taken out in the second inning. She had given up three runs, all unearned. Clark relieved her and pitched one-hit ball for five and two-thirds innings. The Salukis had only two hits in the game, one by Pam Flens in the first inning and the other by Kathy Freske in the seventh.

Styx (1-3) pitched the second game for the Salukis as they lost to SMSU 4-3. The game was a seesaw battle as SMSU kept taking the lead and the Salukis kept tying it up. SMSU prevailed, though, scoring in the top of the seventh. Saluki Toni Grounds had three RBI for the Salukis.

The Salukis' only win came against Western as Clark (2-2) pitched a fine game. After a shaky first inning in which Western scored two runs, Clark settled down, scattering five hits and striking out six Westerners. The Salukis were down 2-0 going into the sixth when they scored four runs. Darci Rice sacrificed Susan Jones from third for the winning run.

Styx pitched against ISU again and lost 4-1. She gave up six hits and three walks. ISU's workhorse Maxine McGaughlin pitched a great game, giving up three hits. McGaughlin has pitched every game for the Redbirds and is 5-5, as is the team.

Clark came back and pitched the last game against Bradley. The Salukis lost 3-2. Bradley's Kim Rosenbaum and Beth Hawkins combined for a one-hitter against the Salukis. The only Saluki hit was by freshman Detra Cage, her first collegiate hit.

"We were just outplayed," Brechtelsbauer said. "We didn't execute as a team and we gave up runs in the first couple innings which made it hard to come back."

The Salukis batted .111 as a team and are 3-7 for the season.

Fielders drop two in overtime

By Steve Koulos

Disaster struck the SIU-C women's field hockey team last weekend.

SIU-C, which finished 1-2 in the Saluki Hockey Fest, lost to Toledo 5-4 in one overtime period and to Indiana State 2-1 in double overtime. The Salukis notched their only victory over winless Western Illinois (1-0).

Five teams participated in the Hockey Fest, which wasn't a tournament but was designed for schools to play a series of games at a central site. ISU and Southwest Missouri State each posted a 2-0 record, while Toledo finished 2-2 and Western Illinois went 0-3.

"It was not a good weekend for us," admitted SIU-C women's field hockey Coach Julie Illner, whose team slipped to 2-1 in the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference and 5-4-1 overall. "The thing that is so frustrating is the skill is there. Position-wise we are at the right places, but the stick-work wasn't there this weekend."

In the first game Friday against Toledo, the Salukis blew a 2-0 halftime lead. The loss overshadowed a brilliant performance by left wing Sharon Leidy, who notched a hat trick for the Salukis despite playing in only the first half and the overtime period.

leads the team with seven goals. She has already matched her season high for goals, set last year.

The Salukis dominated the first half and outshot Toledo by a 18-3 margin, but fell apart the remainder of the game. They were outshot by Toledo 14-7 in the second half and the overtime period.

Toledo tied the score at 2-2 before right inner Terry Draffkorn scored her first goal of the season at 10:31 to give the Salukis a 3-2 lead.

The Rockets came back and tied the game with two seconds remaining in regulation when right inner Ann Smith beat SIU-C goalie Lisa Cuocci from 10 yards out.

Smith, who entered the game with only one goal, scored again at the 4:58 mark in overtime to give the Rockets a 4-3 lead. Leidy deadlocked the score with 37 seconds remaining in overtime when she took a pass by Kathy Crowley and beat Toledo goalie Kim Tuyn.

Toledo re'aliated 14 seconds later when center-forward Kathy Hudson beat Cuocci for

Spikers still sliding, finish 1-3 in tourney

Times have been better for the Saluki volleyball team.

After a disastrous 2-5 showing two weeks ago at the Brigham Young University Preview, Coach Debbie Hunter said she hoped her team could return from the Tennessee Classic over the weekend with at least a .500 record.

The Salukis could manage only one win in four matches in Tennessee, though, and Hunter's club slipped to 6-12 for the season.

After winning the Saluki Invitational three weeks ago, SIU-C has salvaged only three of its last 11 matches, with one of those wins against a junior college and not recognized by the NCAA.

Hunter isn't worried about her team's early season fortunes, though.

"It's like hitting a sacrifice fly," she said. "We're giving things away now to gain something down the way."

The "something" down the way is the Gateway Conference title. After a dismal third-place finish in the GCAC last season, the conference crown is uppermost on the coach's priority list this fall.

Along the way, Hunter has said that winning regular-season matches hasn't been her focus, but rather observing and tailoring her team's performance.

The win-loss record has definitely slipped by the wayside.

In the Tennessee tournament, though, the Salukis could be said to have stepped into water over their heads. In the opening match, SIU-C squared off with host Tennessee, which is ranked

Softball team claims dismal tourney finish

The SIU-C softball team mustered only one win in five games over the weekend in Normal in the Redbird Softball Invitational.

The Illinois State Redbirds won their own tournament as they compiled a 4-1 record, beating Bradley University, which also finished 4-1. The University of Missouri team captured third place with a 3-2 record as they beat Southwest Missouri State, which also finished 3-2. The Salukis finished fifth while Western Illinois lost all five of its games.

After a 1-4 weekend and a fifth-place finish among six teams, what else could happen to Saluki Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer's team?

She was informed Monday that freshman pitcher Deanne Styx quit the team, left the University and went home to Rock Island. Styx was at SIU-C on an athletic scholarship. According to Brechtelsbauer, Styx was homesick.

"She (Styx) was talking about leaving since the first week," the coach said. "We (the coaches and players) tried convincing her to stay but I guess she made up her mind to go. She was just plain homesick."

Salukis ranked third; MVC honors Johnson

Fresh off of a 35-28 victory over Arkansas State, the Salukis climbed to the No. 3 ranking in the NCAA I-AA football poll.

Eastern Kentucky, 4-0, held onto the No. 1 ranking, while Colgate, 4-0, moved up a notch to No. 2.

Indiana State fell from No. 7 to No. 18 after a 37-20 drubbing by Missouri Valley Conference foe Illinois State.

This is the second straight week the Salukis have risen in the poll. They started out at No. 8 two weeks ago and last week rose to No. 5.

Saluki quarterback Rick Johnson was named the Missouri Valley Conference Offensive Player of the Week for his performance against Arkansas State Saturday.

Johnson completed 18 of 33 passes for 222 yards and three touchdowns with no interceptions in the Salukis comeback victory. Johnson also scored the game-winning touchdown on a 1-yard run with 4:49 left in the game.

The last touchdown drive by the Salukis knocked nearly six minutes off of the clock, which was what Johnson wanted to happen.

"I knew we had to do something on that drive," Johnson said. "I was thinking 'We've got to have a long touchdown drive.'"

The Arkansas State contest was the first time this season that Johnson has played the entire game. Johnson suffered injuries to his ankle and knee in the season opener, missed the next two games and played sparingly in the fourth game against Northern Iowa.

"I felt better in the game, but I'm not quite 100 percent," Johnson said. "I'm about 90 percent recovered."

Saluki Coach Rey Dempsey said, "I can't believe how well Rick's throwing the ball. Ever since Rick was hurt in the season opener, we've had to go with a makeshift offense. With Rick finally being back, we're going to be a good ballclub."

SIU-C's defense, the season-long catalyst for igniting victories, did it again Saturday against the Indians, but only after surrendering 28 first-half points.

Arkansas State racked up 352 yards total offense in the first half. The Indians rushed for 236 yards on 35 carries in the first half, a 6.7 yards per carry average.

The Indians passed for 116 yards and two of their four touchdowns against the normally stingy pass-defense in the first half.

In the second half, though, it was a different ballgame as the Salukis rallied with two touchdowns while shutting down Arkansas State.

Saluki defensive coordinator Carl Angelo said the defense did not make any changes during halftime.

"We didn't really change our defense at the half," Angelo said. "We stayed with our basic defense that we used in the first half. We thought we'd do well with it."
